With some classic holiday options to trendier pieces, there is something for everyone. You can go as crazy as you want or you can play within your comfort zone while styling, staying on par with the current trends that every man seems to be following.

Here are some trends that you need to focus on this summer and get in line with the latest fashion trends of 2021.

Get Comfortable with Florals

Who says men cannot wear florals? Times are changing and florals are the print to look for in the market when you are shopping. You have to be confident about what you wear because these florals can really elevate your look and make you feel good at the same time. Look for shirts with bold floral designs with splashes of color. In fact, if you have any wholesale Hawaiian shirts, they will be right on trend at the moment for men who live for fashion. They can be your style statement for a night out with friends.

Bermuda Shorts Are Back

Ah, the Bermuda shorts are making a comeback and it looks like they are here to stay for a long time. The Bermuda shorts ruled the fashion shows this year and by the looks of it, they will still be in trend for 2022 as well, so this is a great opportunity for you to just stock up before they are too expensive for a man on a budget. When buying the right pair of Bermuda shorts, make sure you get the right length. Your ideal length would be a pair of shorts that are just a few inches shy of touching your kneecaps.

Stripes, Nautical and More

Vertical stripes are in for the summer and spring and look especially dashing when worn with the right bottoms. Vertical stripes are a great way to look refined and chic, plus they help you look slimmer and more toned. Men look especially slimmer and taller when they wear white vertical stripes with white or off-white bottoms.

Nautical is getting more popular by the day, thanks to the easy going and fresh look they offer. Look for Breton tops, beanies and more to stay in theme and on trend with the current fashion staples. While you are at it, make sure you get some washed denim pants or jeans as well. They look good with everything and can elevate any look you want without any issues.

Other trends that you can invest in include collared shirts, all-white clothes to show off your tan, safari jackets, bomber jackets for a light evening wear and believe it or not, Trench Coats!
